Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because the unlabeled rectangular boxes shown in the drawings should be provided with descriptive text labels. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2611

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-9, 11-16, 18 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rhee et al (US 2003/0227989).

Regarding claims 1, 11 and 18, Rhee discloses a receiver in a data processing system shown in figure 2 (paragraph (0004). The received signal is converted and input to PLL 10. The signal comprises a clock signal and a data signal to optimize the bit error rate (BER) (paragraph 0034). The receiver of figure 2 extracts the clock signals and the data signal. The delay locked loop 20 determines if the BER is optimized or not (paragraph 0034) and provides short term jitter tracking (figure 2). The components of the DLL output signals based on these determinations.

Regarding claim 2, the transmitter receives the data over a communication link from a pattern generator generating the data shown in figures 6a and 6b.

Regarding claim 3, the receiver receives non-return-to zero data (paragraph 0004) that is converted to parallel data (paragraph 0020).

Regarding claims 4, 6-8, 12-15 and 19, Rhee discloses optimizing the BER. When the BER is not optimized, an additional correction will be made to correct for the error.

Regarding claim 5, Rhee further discloses the present invention controls the clock-and-recovery performance metrics in terms of jitter tolerance in the present invention (paragraph 0034).

Regarding claims 9 and 16, Rhee further discloses using a phase rotator to compensate for jitter in the receiver (paragraph 0043).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 10, 17 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rhee et al (US 2003/0227989) in view of Perrott (US 6,856,206).

Regarding claims 10, 17 and 20, Rhee discloses the apparatus stated above. Rhee does not disclose a look-up table containing entries having an associated BER value to facilitate corrective action recommendation. Perrott discloses the table shown in figure 27a having the various ranges of bit errors being assigned a digital value (column 18, lines 47-68). The table will allow the proper signal to be output to correct for the bit error. The desired clock signal will be output. For this reason, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine the look-up table of Perrott into the apparatus of Rhee.
